It Was a Real Show— We'll Tell the World

What a parade! What a show! What a crowd! The Carmel Circus of 1925, indulged in last Saturday, was a knockout.

Every event on the long and varied program made somebody happy. Boys from eight to eighty and girls from six to sixty, had the time of their young lives.

Youngsters with false teeth and gray hair were fighting for first place on Ocean avenue to see the parade go by. And Carmel's Memorial Fountain became a Fountain of Youth and Beauty when the fair sex pressed it into service as a grandstand.

The Carmel Club of Arts and Crafts has a healthy balance in the bank as the result of the success of the day's events.

Some of the big contributing elements toward the fine program were the horses and riders furnished by Lynn Hodges' San Carlos Riding Academy, and the band, horses and men by the Monterey Presidio.

Not only Carmel and her summer visitors made up the large attendance. People came from Monterey, Pacific Grove, Del Monte and Pebble Beach.

Appearance of "Rip" Eagerly Awaited

By Valentine Porter

I love Forest Theater plays and I love to be in them. Of all the plays I've either seen or been in I think Rip Van Winkle is one of the best. Perry Newberry is producing it, and we all like him ever so much, because he is so nice and so funny. Everybody in it is happy, and everybody outside of it, too, will be happy when they see it. Everybody's going to laugh at Ralph Geddes in Act I, when he tells his wife, Gretchen, about the rabbit "feeding mit the grass" and "his little tail was stickin' up . . . so."

There's nobody really grown up in the cast except Austin James, who plays Derrick Von Beekman. The very tiniest villagers are Jane Hopper and Jimmy Blackman. Jimmy is also one of Hendrick Hudson's pirate crew, who are the gnomes in Act II. I am Hendrick Vedder in Act I, and Meenie that I play with is Katherine Blackman. In Act III, twenty years later, I grow up into Ted Criley, and she grows up into Anne Clute. There's going to be a lot of dancing in Act I, and Jinnee Burton is teaching us.

I don't know what the set is going to be like, because the Mikado set isn't quite down yet, but the little house we used in Mr. Bunt last year is being built over into the inn, and Rip (that's Ralph Geddes) is sawing off the ends of planks for the floor.

My dog Fussy wants to come to rehearsal with me, and wants to come up on the stage. We pretend that she wants to play Rip's dog Schneider.

DECISION WILL BENEFIT PUBLIC

A decision, far-reaching and important, respecting the conflicting claims to land in and near the Pinnacles National Park near Hollister, has been rendered by the United States Land Office.

According to the decision, Herman A. Hermanson has been awarded 640 acres, which places him in control of two roads into the park—one on the Hollister side, the other on the Soledad side.

This decision ends a land feud of twenty years duration, and the result will probably be the immediate inauguration of improvements long desired.

NO DELAY

There will be no delay in the collection of garbage and waste in this city. On Wednesday morning, under authority of the Board of Trustees, President William T. Kibbler entered into a month's contract with Phil Wilson to take over the work recently given up by George Beck and Eugene Shaw. Wilson has adopted the ticket plan of collecting his compensation in advance.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Carmel Board of Trustees will meet as a Board of Equalization next Monday morning at 10 o'clock. The books are now open for inspection.

Manager Job in Lap of the Gods

It's always fair weather
When our trustees get together,
With a job on the table
And the Marshal standing near.

There's a job on the table, alright. Just as everyone was on the quiver at the trustees meeting last Monday night for announcement of the name of the new city manager, the trustees laid the matter over for a month, instead of making an immediate choice as had been anticipated.

There were only two written applications made for the position—those of A. P. Fraser and Emma W. Wermuth. The rumored filing of a referendum petition is still a rumor, no one appearing with a petition or suggesting such action.

Several resolutions having to do with the proceedings incident to the improvement of Ocean avenue and Carpenter street were read and adopted. The main one was the Resolution of Intention, which among other things, defines the boundaries of the improvement district against which the cost of the work will be assessed. (See official resolution on another page.) Date for protest is Monday, August 31.

Assuming that the city intended to place street name signs at the various intersections, Mrs. Francis Hanique applied for the job of painting the signs. The ordinance recently passed applies only to private business signs.

A letter from a prominent resident was read objecting to the noise made at night in a hut occupied by Chinese. So loud and long is the noise that the lady's slumbers are disturbed. Marshal Englund was instructed to snoop around to see if he could break up the fan-tan, chuck-a-luck and domino games, which are alleged to cause the noise.

R. C. DeYoe addressed the board concerning the further opening up of Santa Fe avenue leading to the main highway. He was informed by Mayor Kibbler that the matter was up to the property owners.

Mayor Kibbler was authorized to enter into a contract for the removal of garbage in this city. A bond of $500 will be required from the contractor.

The removal and proper placing of one of the local public school buildings pending the completion of the new building, was referred to Trustees Dennis and Larouette for adjustment in conformity with fire department regulations.

Though mention was made of the new library and the building ordinance, no action was taken on these important matters.

PROGRAM OF DANCE AT GOLDEN BOUGH

Tonight, Betty Horst and Ruth Austin, with Katharine Vander Roest Clarke at the piano, will give at the Theatre of the Golden Bough a program of dance, promising to surpass in interest and charm their very delightful performance of last summer. The trio of talented young artists will present a program of visualizations of music of Bach, Scarlatti, Schubert, Scriabin, Stravinsky and Ornstein, and in addition, a group of interesting diversissements, with costume and lighting effects of unusual charm.

Foster Scores Big Hit With "The Mikado"

Shades of the old Tivoli! Shades of Ferris Hartman! Shades of Gracie Plaisted!

These and others passed in review in our mind's eye (and ears) at the Forest Theater last week during the performance of "The Mikado," so splendidly produced by Fenton P. Foster.

No element of a successful presentation was lacking. Nothing suffered by comparison. There was a good orchestra, beautiful costumes, an attractive stage set, fine singing and efficient acting. And in response to all of these there were two large and appreciative audiences.

Did space permit we would, with the program before us, go down the list of all the characters and say some nice things about them. But we shall only mention by name the high lights. However, had it not been for the splendid cooperation of those who are not mentioned, the high lights would suffer for lack of mention.

First and foremost it must be set down that John R. Pavilla, the little man from Pacific Grove, in the character of "Ko-Ko," did his big job in a thoroughly satisfactory manner. Perhaps his best bit was the rendition of the song, "I've Got Him on My List."

Our old boyhood friend, Carroll Sandholt, surprised us. We were told that he could sing, but we thought that "Sally in Our Alley" was about his limit. Not so. There is no limit, think we, after hearing him sing the numbers called for in the part of Nanki-Poo.

Then there was George Dorwart. He was always—during the operetta—a dignified old grafter. In his voice he had that quality which suggested that he was trying to avoid paying income tax.

Perry Newberry and Stuart Work added much to the comedy, but as vocalists they are good stevedores.

Of the ladies, who sang and acted, two stood out—Marion Hawley of the Monterey Presidio and Eleanor Watson of Monterey. Miss Hawley was charming as "Yum Yum," singing professionally and acting not so professionally.

"Katisha" is a thankless role at best, but Miss Watson made of the character, especially in the singing, a vital and necessary part in the construction of the narrative.

S. P. INAUGURATES NEW SLEEPER SERVICE

The Southern Pacific Company has put on a special week-end sleeping car service between Monterey and San Francisco.

The train leaves San Francisco 2:30 Saturday morning, arriving in Monterey at 8:15. Sleeper accommodations are ready for occupancy at 9 p. m. Friday.

Returning to San Francisco, the train leaves Monterey at 4 a. m. Monday and the sleeper is open for occupancy at 9 a. m. Sunday. The train arrives in San Francisco at 8:20 Monday morning. This train also carries a diner.

The service at Carmel All Saints tomorrow morning at ten o'clock, will be in charge of Archdeacon A. W. Noel Porter of Trinity Church, San Jose.

CLEAN LITERATURE

IN many of the states west of the Mississippi the cowboy and prospector still ride their bronchos and burros and live lives of romance, adventure and exploration—the basis of western open air literature.

The western literary product includes moving pictures, action stories, cowboy songs and frontier ballads, and thousands of story, verse and song writers supply the world with this material that is read by millions.

Two years ago Col. E. Hofer, of Salem, Oregon, a life-long newspaper man and publisher, established a western literary monthly, The Lariat, to encourage Western writers, set a higher standards, and fight degenerate products.

In its third year, it is followed by The Lariat Story Magazine, published by Real Adventures Publishing Co., New York, and the North-West Writers Bureau at Salem, Oregon, making a market for literary products of the open air and adventure stories in popular magazines.

While thrilling with the romance of a new and robust civilization, western writers as a class turn out a clean, vital, wholesome literature singularly free from all taint of degeneracy.

ADVANTAGE OF SMALL NEWSPAPERS

FROM an ethical standpoint it can fairly be claimed that the country press and small city dailies have a marked advantage over the big metropolitan newspapers.

The small daily or country weekly that lives up to its opportunities represents the stand of personal journalism in behalf of the community.

As long as the small city dailies and country weeklies remain true to their best traditions, with their editorials devoted to constructive policies, their influence in journalism will increase.

The smaller papers are conducted by their owners who are personally known to the people and business men of the community and read in nearly every family.

The owners, editors and publishers are freer to express their honest convictions than the highly commercialized city press, too often run by hired employees, principally to earn dividends.

PHILOSOPHICAL TOURING

ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON suggested an attitude of mind for the modern tourist which is the key to the enjoyment of motoring and which makes familiar scenes the more interesting and every highway an attractive volume of absorbing lore.

"He who is indeed of the brotherhood," wrote Stevenson, "does not voyage in search of the picturesque, but of certain jolly humors." These humors of Stevenson represent an attitude of mind. It is a thought which might have been credited to a follower of Buddha. It suggests the close relationship of mortality to the infinite. It is the same thought which lies behind the oft quoted lines of Shakespeare, "Sermons in stones, books in the running brook," and it leads to an appreciation of the backgrounds of life which may be attained in no other way.

The great difficulty with the average tourist is that he closes his eyes and mind to the beauties of Nature which are often close at hand. He does not, like Thoreau, create a world about him by exercising his powers of observation. Communion with Nature is one of the most potent means of stimulating the imagination and of developing a sense of the fitness of things and the power to visualize matters with a sane perspective.

The motorist who will try out this prescription and search for new beauties in places near at hand will discover that he is improving his powers of observation and deriving a far greater interest from the use of his motor car.

Purolator System First Used By Chrysler

J. E. FIELDS

ONE of the things that shortens the life of a fine automobile engine is wear due to grit that gets into the lubricating oil," says J. E. Fields, Vice President in charge of sales of the Chrysler Sales Corporation.

"This was one of the very first things guarded against by Chrysler engineers and more than 18 months ago, when the Chrysler Six was introduced, it was fitted with a filter that purified the oil while the engine runs. It is due to foresight in providing such features as this that Chrysler Six engines can go on delivering the remarkable service that they do with a minimum of trouble.

"Chrysler was the pioneer amongst builders of motor cars in the adoption of the Purolator, as the oil purifying system is known.

"The leadership of Chrysler engineering methods is now once more apparent as the example of including an oil filtering device is now being generally followed."

CARMEL LIBRARY HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

At the annual meeting of the Carmel Library Association on Monday, Aug. 3, the following were elected members of the Board of Trustees: J. B. Adams, for a term of three years; Mrs. Frederick Dutton, Miss Emiline Harrington, Dr. D. T. MacDougal, and Miss Clara N. Kellogg for a term of four years. The treasurer's report showed a balance on hand of $221, most of which will soon be expended for books. The secretary, Miss Harrington, gave an encouraging report, which, in part, follows:

There have been twelve regular and one special meeting of the board during the year.

While many books have been added and large replacements made, the shelves have been weeded of useless incumbrances and the remaining volumes entirely rearranged in the best manner possible with the present equipment. The last accession number reported is 7500 and new books ordered are continually arriving. The table of periodicals is much crowded and appears to be greatly enjoyed by many visitors. Special gifts have made possible the purchase of a considerable number of very beautiful stereoscopic pictures of flowers for the children's department, which the very youngest and very oldest patrons appear to delight in equally.

Though the number of card-holders has increased regularly, the circulation has fluctuated widely from month to month but is now on the up grade in a manner not wholly due to the usual summer rush.

The reorganization of the library has been going on for some months and is not yet complete though well on the way. It has involved much work on the part of many more people than there is space to name, including friends of the library besides those who are officially connected with its management.

Between five and six thousand superfluous cards have been removed from the catalog, making it easily accessible and giving space for new cards as books are added to the shelves. The new system of charging books has just been put in operation with the aid of Mrs. W. L. Tower, who has been prevailed upon to give immediate oversight of the details of the library management.

Three long-time members of the Board have withdrawn from active duty during the year, though still ready to aid with advice and encouragement in the ever recurring crises that confront a growing library in a rapidly changing environment. The need of an enlarged membership in the association, and of a very much increased financial support becomes more and more pressing month by month. Books are not so well made, physically speaking, as they used to be and wear out quicker. They must be replaced or repaired oftener. Nothing costs less as time goes on. The work is as well worth doing as it ever was. It grows. It serves an ever larger number of people and it must be supported. It will be.

Three benefit entertainments have been given during the year: a vaudeville by Carmel young ladies, an illustrated lecture on Shasta Mud Flows by G. F. Beardsley, and a dance by Mrs. J. G. Hooper. The Carmel Library has no debts. It has a cash balance and an increasing number of friends and looks forward hopefully.

Mrs. James Collins and her daughter, Miss Dorothy Catching are Carmel visitors, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. Allison Shoemaker. They expect to return to their home in Stockton the latter part of this week.

ATTENTION

Are there any lonely women in Carmel? Any women sitting in lonely rooms wishing they knew people and could feel that they belonged here?

We want them; we need their help. Costumes must be made for the children's play at the Forest Theater next week, and every woman who can sew and will help us is asked to get in touch with Mrs. Eva Bickle at the Palace Drug Store any afternoon between one and four. And any woman who isn't lonely and is so busy that she is willing to be a little bit busier is wanted, too.

ART NOTES

PAINTINGS EXHIBITED AT ARTS AND CRAFTS HALL

The exhibit of paintings by Mrs. Edith Ward Hunt and Miss E. Grace Ward at Arts and Crafts Hall will extend from Sunday, August 16, through Friday of the same week, 3 to 5 daily.

Mrs. Hunt's work includes portraits, still life and landscapes in oil. There will also be shown some interesting examples of wood carving designed and executed by Mrs. Hunt and her pupils.

Miss Ward's work is more largely in water color and pastel, together with examples of pen and ink designs for greeting cards and book-plates. One group of work will include interior and exterior color studies of an Ozark country place. Two decorative screens will also be shown. Miss Ward's studies are largely Californian.

Most of Mrs. Hunt's previous work has been done and exhibited in the middle west. She has pictures at present on exhibit in St. Louis, Missouri, and also in connection with "The Attic" at Santa Monica, California, under John Lawton Freeman.

The Ward-Hunt Studio is located at the southwest corner of Carmelo and Seventh streets.

EVOLUTION OF A DOLL HOUSE

Being now a small "museum" and not merely a room, the Children's Museum in the Chicago Art Institute has installed a group of period rooms quite as interesting as any full-sized examples in larger places. A doll-house made in 1850 by Leonidas Vergil Badger, for his small granddaughters, is a copy of the old Badger house at Portsmouth, New Hampshire. The real house was built in 1690 along the lines of so many of the early American mansions of that day. The doll-house has four rooms; a living room, dining room, and upstairs sitting room, and a bed room. In the living room and in the upstairs sitting room are fireplaces, with beautiful white mantels. Each room has two windows and some have the broad low sills that are to be found in old houses looking toward the sea, where sat those who watched for the returning ship of the seafaring husband, father or brother. The original furniture of this house has disappeared but, like many another old one, it is filled with fine modern reproductions of early pieces. There is a four-post mahogany bed, a Governor Carver chair, and two Chinese teakwood chairs which were copies no doubt of older ones brought home from foreign parts by the sailors of the family.

There is an increase in the family of Mr. and Mrs. John H. McKee. They have a brand new car.

TOO MUCH EPSTEIN

There is "much discussion of Jacob Epstein's sculpture for the W. H. Hudson Bird Sanctuary in London," says the Dearborn Independent.

"Epstein, of course, has done what he did in the statues of Abraham Lincoln and Jesus of Nazareth, and has carved brutal ugliness to represent moron intelligence. The statue of Jesus is not quite so respectable as that of a desert whirling dervish would be, and Lincoln is a negroid idiot carved in a form which Nature in her cruelest sport seldom gives a man. Now comes the horrific caricature of the fey, gentle Rima of Hudson's "Green Mansions." She is represented as a tortured and bumpy anatomy which achieves immediately the force of a repulsion. Whether Epstein hates his environment and is pouring his hatred out on Anglo-Saxondom through the medium of his chisel, or is simply expressing an innate craving for ugliness under the delusion that he is finding strength, are questions widely discussed. It is perhaps charitable to think that Epstein is an extreme case of ego; which, of course, damns him as an artist. Art is supreme humility. The artist sits before his subject, subordinating all to it. The rule for writer and sculptor is the same: fill eye and mind with the object; cast out self; be true to the truth of things as things reveal it to you. Epstein has not done this. He is continuously carving one thing, the soul of Epstein, and it is not beautiful."

LOS ANGELES—EVENTUALLY

And now Davenport, Iowa, "where the West begins," has been graduated into the ranks of proud cities having art museums of their own. The city has established what it says is the first Municipal Art Gallery in the United States. It has taken over an old armory, remodeled it and set aside for the first year $20,000 for installation and support. The building will yield twelve good sized galleries. Mr. R. J. McKinney, a graduate of the School of the Art Institute, has been appointed director and is at present visiting the Chicago museum for the purpose of studying methods. Davenport is said to have the finest collection of American paintings of the Hudson River school of any organization in America.

NOTES

Four small paintings by Myron Oliver of Monterey, on exhibition at the Laguna Beach Galleries, were recently sold to a San Diego art collector.

About $800,000 was realized from the recent sale of 240 of the paintings of John Singer Sargent who died in London last April. Early reports as to the small estate left by the great American artist are now dissipated.

"ARE NOT TWO SPARROWS SOLD FOR A FARTHING?"

By Louise H. Conger

America—be it said with all humility—takes the lead in the protection of song birds; while Europe on the other hand, ruthlessly destroys them; until a protest has been raised by some who fear their extinction. In Belgium, for instance, four million skylarks were killed for markets in France. The Latin nations are extremely fond of birds for food, and in Italy untold cruelties are practiced to facilitate the capture of small insect eating birds. A number of these little creatures are netted and kept in a dark cellar. After they have become used to the dark their eyes are put out with red-hot irons, and when the wounds have healed they are taken out into the sunshine in tiny wooden cages. Other birds are attracted by the peculiar cries made by the blinded birds as they feel the warmth and sense the sunshine. In this way the captors can net many small birds and sell them for food. This barbarous traffic has gone on for so many years that in some countries to revolt against it would be little less than dangerous. In Germany, England and Scandinavia they are more amenable to reason.

At the present time there is a treaty between the nations of Europe regulating the killing of the song birds. Some will have nothing to do with it, and those who have accepted it will not enforce it. France deplored the fact that in the southern part of the country the people slaughtered the birds wholesale, yet sees no way to remedy the matter. While Holland objected to the present treaty on the grounds that it would prevent the sale of plover eggs, which, it seems, is quite an industry. This serves to show how little can be done when the public has a fixed idea in its head, and are convinced that what they do is perfectly all right. The hope for birds in Europe will have to be a matter of humane education.

However, there is one earnest and indefatigable worker, Dr. T. Gilbert Pearson, president of the National Association of Audubon Societies, to whom has been given the task of drawing up a new treaty and presenting it at the next convention, when the International Committee for the Protection of Birds meets in Switzerland in 1927. At the last convention which met in Luxemburg, Dr. Pearson was decorated by the Grand Duchess with the order of the Oaken Wreath, an ancient order of the Grand Duchy, given for distinguished service in some branch of the art or sciences.

In the preservation of its game birds Europe takes the lead, as most of them are on private preserves, and woe to the poacher who trespasses! In America they are public property, and in spite of game laws, many of the species are in danger of becoming extinct.

Miss Janie Johnston, who formerly lived here, and Miss Margaret Craven, have moved to the Young cottage on north Lincoln street, where they will be until the fifteenth.

WILL GIVE LECTURE ON SHAKESPEARE

Doctor T. J. Henry, a great student of Shakespeare, and a lecturer of international repute, is to lecture on Shakespeare in the Carmel Church next Monday evening, the 10th.

Dr. Henry interprets the plays of Shakespeare in a dramatic manner, and his memory is remarkable. One critic said he has a "masterly grasp of his subject, and to hear him is to better understand the great playwright."

The lecture is free. A silver collection will be taken in aid of the superannuated ministers of the church.

When You Buy and Build In Carmel Be Sure You Know Carmel

When Californians, Inc., an organization that has already spent $1,000,000 in advertising central California, formally announced its purpose, a group of San Francisco's elect raised forbidding hands and shook their heads in arch disapproval.

"Why bring more people here?" they wailed. "Our highways are now jammed beyond capacity. Why commonize the beauty of our California landscape with a helter-skelter humanity?"

True—in a sense. And we don't have to go to San Francisco to hear similar arguments, because the Monterey Peninsula is one of the very choicest of California's beauty packages. All who live here are daily confronted with the obligation of seeing that beauty preserved to the fullest extent. Our problem is one of selection and assimilation. The homes we add—and the men and women who harmonize them—must fit into the picture. Whether we, the present residents of this section, desire to stand still in home-growth and stagnate with present population, or go ahead progressively, matters little. The Monterey Peninsula, "The Circle of Enchantment," is too all-fired attractive a country to remain so sparsely dotted with homes. Those who live on the outside are seeking what we now so absolutely possess—the background of an ideal living.

And this applies to Carmel with insistent force. Carmel's magnetic life and physical attributes are full of lure. Carmel is growing day by day and will continue so to do. Our problem is to see that it grows in the right way, that the new homes give added charm to what nature has so lavishly bestowed. Also that the prospective newcomer be made to realize the spirit and life of the community before he buys and builds.

LA LOMA Terrace

La Loma Is Destined To Be Carmel's Most Attractive Home Section

LA LOMA commands a free view of ocean, forests and mountains. It is accessible on paved highways—five minutes from Carmel's business district; ten minutes from the center of Monterey. It is served with an adequate water supply and electricity.

LA LOMA sites are as you want them—of a size to fit your purse. Payments can be arranged to meet your convenience.

See what you can see from La Loma. Realize its possibilities. It's well not to wait, for La Loma's natural attractiveness and its suitability for the ideal home—large, medium or small—will mean a quick disposal of the entire restricted La Loma section.

GOLDEN BOUGH PLAYERS TO PRESENT MACLEOD'S "THE IMMORTAL HOUR"

"The Immortal Hour," Fiona Macleod's beautiful poetic drama, evoking from the dim past the gods and heroes of the ancient Gaels, will be given its first public presentation in America tomorrow night at the Theatre of the Golden Bough.

Edward Kuster, under whose direction the play is being produced, says of it, "There was criticism because I selected 'Merton of the Movies' for production earlier in the season. There is criticism over the choice of 'The Immortal Hour.' There is criticism because of 'The Faraway Princess,' and 'The Sabine Women,' soon to follow. It seems that the atmosphere of 'Merton' was not 'arty' enough for the Golden Bough, that 'The Immortal Hour' is TOO 'arty,' while 'The Faraway Princess' is too short and too Central-European, and 'The Sabine Women' too utterly light-hearted, empty-headed and absurd to be suitable for presentation within the mellow walls of the Golden Bough.

"Why will so many people fail to understand that the Theatre is as various as life itself? Infinitely more various, in fact, than any individual life, for the theatre opens the locked doors of our minds and the tight windows of our souls and exposes each one of us to imaginative adventures far beyond any possible experiences we have had or can ever have.

"With 'The Immortal Hour' the case is simply this—it is, as has been said, 'a dream-colored drama of the mind, woven against imagined tapestries.' It brings before our living eyes a remote and forgotten past, and to our ears the music of the stately cadences, and of the proud, ringing, unspoiled words that are the peculiar heritage of the Gaelic race. One either likes that kind of thing, or one doesn't. At all events, it is not a bad idea to expose oneself to it now and then. Acquired tastes often bring, eventually, greatest delight."

"The Immortal Hour will be given only one performance, that of tomorrow night, to be followed next weekend by Sudermann's comedy, 'The Faraway Princess.'"

AMERICA'S NEW LEAD

Don't fall into the habit of closing your mind when you see the word "architecture." It indicates America's new lead in a great art. The ancients built low and long because they had only stone piers; we have steel to thrust into the skies, and glass to ease the weight of structures, and as a consequence we are leading the world in architecture today. So thinks Albert Wood, A. I. A., who has some notable work to his credit.

A HEAVY PLASTER

Judge Charles Hecker got up on his hind legs yesterday morning when Marshal England brought Fred Ammermann in for speeding. "Twenty-five dollars and your license suspended for one month," said the amiable Judge.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Taylor have returned to their home in Carmel after an extended trip to Minnesota and Illinois. Returning here with them are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Woods of St. Paul. Mrs. Woods was the former Miss Jean Taylor, whose wedding in St. Paul was an event of June.

Recently, Gordon Campbell and his cousin, Edward Holbrook, visited their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Polk, at Balboa Beach for ten days.

Demand

IN the early days of the telephone, when the 16-mile circuit from Boston to Salem was the longest in existence, an old lady visited the Boston exchange and asked for a connection to Chicago so she could talk with her son.

The need for voicing thought to far-away places began with the nation's expanding activities. Long before the telephone art permitted it, long distance service was demanded. A national service was, from the beginning, the beacon of the telephone's founders, and the inspiration of the scientists and engineers whose achievements gradually overcame the obstacles to the transmission of human speech.

These conquered, national expansion has more and more been made possible, and the uncertainties of separation have diminished. Today any community in America can talk with any other so promptly and satisfactorily that men have difficulty in imagining a time when universal service was an ideal yet to be reached.

A FEW PERTINENT FACTS WORTH THINKING OVER

By
C. A. Chamberlain, District Ranger,
Santa Barbara National Forest.

There are more than 150 National Forests; they contain 157 million acres; they are distributed from the Canadian border to the Mexican border, from Maine to California. They embrace parts of every mountain system and almost every Forest region in the United States; they form the natural outlets of large populations, they are the enjoyed fields for outdoor sport and recreation. To millions of people they are the natural and sometimes only playgrounds, other than city parks.

The estimated number of visitors to National Forests has increased from 3,160,300 in 1917 to 11,394,366 in 1924. The total number of cabins and residences have increased from 3,269 in 1917 to 8349 in 1924, and the number of hotels, resorts, and camps from 359 in 1917 to 1924 in 1924.

At the close of 1924 the total value of all recreational improvements constructed by the Forest Service was $131,472.00. The amount contributed was $27,644.00. The cost to the United States for all of the work done was $103,828.00. These figures do not include the cost of repairs.

No charge is made for permission to use the National Forest roads, trails, camp grounds, or lands except where exclusive rights or special privileges are desired, and these are allowed only where they do not interfere with the free use of the Forest by the general public. However, this free use of the Forests by the people has resulted in forcing the United States government to spend large sums of money in fighting fires which have been carelessly set by thoughtless campers, hunters, and fishermen. The $131,472.00 spent to make the Forests attractive is but a drop in the bucket as compared to the amount of money used in fire suppression. And probably ninety per cent if not more was the direct result of carelessness.

Last year a fire started on August 27th and continued until October fifth, covering more than 60,000 acres, and burned practically the entire Carmel water shed inside the Forest. As a result of that fire nearly all the fish in the Carmel river were killed by the ashes washed down when the first hard rain came, and the Del Monte Properties Company were forced to spend, in addition to the amount they paid for labor to fight the fire, considerable money for repairs to their water system made necessary by the silt which was washed down from the mountains after the brush cover had been burned away. It does not seem possible that any man would be responsible for such destruction, yet that fire started when the sky was clear and could not have been caused by lightning.

Usually when the first of August rolls around we look for fires. Why? Simply because it is the opening of the hunting season, and the time when the coolest of men loose their head as the first three pointer disappears over some point. If the fellow is smoking he usually finds himself standing with his mouth open, gun in one hand, and wondering where the heck that fellow came from.

This year the Forest is closed to smoking except in Improved Camps or places of habitation. This order was made necessary by the people themselves. Statistics show that smoking has been the cause of a great many fires. The Forest Service is doing all it can to prevent fires. It is not the policy of the Service to curtail the pleasures of the people, but when it is found that the carelessness of a few curtail, or seriously interfere with

VILLAGE - LANTERNS

I'd thought the lanterns carried by
The villagers of Carmel
A pretty affectation,—the
Most harmless of things carnal:

Until last night I found myself
At nine o'clock—that late!
Three winding, woodland black blocks from
My own tree-guarded gate.

I stumbled in bewilderment
This way, and wandered that;
I lost my gloves, I lost my keys,
And then I lost my hat;

And when by miracle of luck
And keen orientation
I found myself before my door—
It seemed by incantation—

I lit the fire upon my hearth,
And made a blessed light;
Then vowed I'd set a lantern out
To walk the woods by night!
—Grace Wallace.

AN APPRECIATION

The piano recital given by Katharine Vander Roest Clarke Sunday evening, July 26th, was an event which proved that Carmel possesses an artist incomparable.

The rendering of Dohnanyi's Rhapsodie and Dohnanyi's Etude, displayed interpretation and technique unsurpassed by any pianiste on the public platform.

A large audience showed their appreciation with continuous applause, to which the artist graciously responded with several encores.

All who enjoyed the privilege of hearing Mrs. Clarke, expressed the desire to know when she will appear again.

Trainer of Boxers Gives Diet Hints

To Kid Howard of Chicago and his new system of training and conditioning, Sammy Mandell, the present lightweight boxing champion of the world, gives a great deal of the credit for his meteoric rise to stardom in the world of pugilism. When Mandell first started fighting, he was small, weak and undeveloped, but after turning himself over to Howard it was only a short time before he took the decision from Sid Terris of New York that resulted in him being recognized as the boss of the lightweights.

Sammy Mandell.

Howard's system is unique in that it works no hardship on the athlete who is in training. Unlike the systems that have been used for years, this prominent and successful trainer of men makes conditioning more of a pleasure than a distasteful necessity. Instead of demanding that his men eat only certain things he advises them to eat what they want and when they want it as long as it is cooked in a proper manner. Mr. Howard, in a recent interview on the subject of diet and condition, said, in part: "Years ago it was a task, and an unpleasant one, for a boxer or a wrestler to train for a bout because he was forced to literally starve himself unless he wanted to eat steaks and chops at all times. I remember that when I was training for a match, I was so truly tired of steaks that I choked every time that I ate one but it was steak or nothing. I advise my men to diet at all times but it is perfectly possible for them to diet and, at the same time, to enjoy their food. My only 'don't' is the one regarding the eating of such combinations as fresh milk and cheese, and fruit with cream. In fact, I advocate the use of evaporated milk entirely. Vegetables are fine and the more that the athlete eats the better he will be for it. Pastry, of certain kinds, such as homemade pies, cakes and cookies, if made correctly, and with pure butter, evaporated milk and pure lard, are very beneficial. Stews and holla are ideal. Taken as a whole, any food, with a few exceptions, is all right if properly cooked and eaten without gorging."

And one has but to look at Howard, who is the most religious user of the new system, to realize that it's a success.
